

Something I Can Say

by The Tonk Honkys © 2013

I'm just looking for something I can say
That won't be taken the wrong way
So many times I've found before
That I was standing on a trap door
But now I'm trying to turn it all around
And try to find some common ground
I'll never know how we got so off track
But it's time to find our way back

What's it going to take to get through to you
What you thought I said or did is not something I'd say or do
Tell me what you want to hear before you walk away
'Cause I'm just looking for something I can say

Why do we always end up here
At a place where my words are never clear
But I know that we can work it all out
If you'll just listen to the words coming out of my mouth

What's it going to take to get through to you
What you thought I said or did is not something I'd say or do
Tell me what you want to hear before you walk away
'Cause I'm just looking for something I can say
